WIN CELTICS TICKETS!!!

Win two tickets to see Kevin Garnett and the Boston Celtics when they host the New York Knicks on Thursday, November 29th. Things got a little testy at the last preseason game so this should be a good one. We are going to be selling raffle tickets at the scorer's table. One raffle ticket will be $5 OR you can purchase 5 tickets for $20. The drawing will be held on Saturday, November 17th.

STAY HYDRATED

Be sure to keep yourself hydrated especially as we get back into the flow of the season. Water will be sold at the scorer's table - $1 for a bottle of H2O.

SCOREKEEPERS WANTED

We have slated a scorekeeper and someone to work the clock at each game. We'd love to have a third person at the scorer's table for each game to maintain the extended stats. Two people can do it, but a third person can help make those extended stats more accurate. If you want to help out, just show up at the game that you want to assist with.

PRESEASON COACHES POLL – Rec Div

I asked the rec coaches to rank the rec teams (excluding their own) so here are the results.

1st Place - Whiplash (3 first place votes) - Tony

Overwhelming favorite has league's best backcourt in Alberto and CJ

2nd Place - Fenway (2 first place votes) - Chris

Strong front line in Chris LeBrun, John and Jason, solid newcomer in Chris Wolf

3rd Place - Fritz (1 first place vote) - Bob Quist

Good chemistry as six former Bulls on the roster

4th Place - Machine - Joe

This team with reigning MVP Brandon received second place votes from three coaches

5th Place - dBar - Bob Symonds

Intensity will be there all season long with Brian, J Lo, David

6th Place - Donovan's Fighting Irish - Kevin

PRESEASON PREDICTIONS – REC DIV

There is a lot of parity between the six rec teams this year so the championship is definitely up for grabs. I know that the coaches had a tough time ranking the teams. I do think it will come down to two teams with the deepest rosters in Whiplash and Fenway.

Whiplash Coach Tony has had pretty good success drafting strong guards as I think back to his Finals appearance with Brandon in '04 and the best regular season record with CJ/Ben/Mark in '06. Alberto is one of the smartest players in the league and CJ can drive, rebound and shoot from long range.

Fenway Coach Chris drafted a strong frontcourt. John replaced Jason as coach the day of the draft last year due to injury and both ironically will be playing together this season.

We have a ways to go, but here is a prediction: Fenway over Whiplash 33-27 in the finals.

Of course, anything can happen. Last season, Fritz and yes, B&G were the top two favorites after the preseason coaches poll. Buzz turned out to be the season long heavy favorite, Fritz won it all, and B&G had a disappointing 6th place finish.

HIGH SCORE Part II

Luke did some digging and found that in '05-'06, the Fritz Bears beat B&G 84-59 which trumps this past season's high of 75 points.

I think there has to be a perfect storm for a team to score 84 points:

- A) You'd need a team that has the talent to score and height to get offensive rebounds.
- B) An opposing team that takes quick shots.
- C) A limited number of fouls and limited number of time spent at the free throw line.
- D) A lack of parity in the division.

84 points is a lot and I can't see that being surpassed anytime soon.

SOAP GAL by Mags

So what's a Sox fan to do now that the baseball season has officially ended? Well, there are always soaps! In the next few months, look for a new face on Days of Our Lives. Contestants recently completed a ten week stretch for a coveted spot on my favorite show. We'll have to see how good the winner Ashlee will be when she makes her debut.
